

Speech and Language Therapy

The most helpful activities for you to do with your child are the ones outlined in their personal Speech and Language Therapy programme. These programmes clearly state the activity you child needs in support with, for example, activities may include taking on the speaker or listener role, learning to understand the words we use, or focussing on the production of speech.

Occupational Therapy

Some of the children will also have received their personal Occupational Therapy programmes that supports their gross motor, fine motor and self-care skills. All the children would benefit from moving on in their self-care skills that may include doing buttons and zippers independently. Do they help you to prepare meals and clean up? Are you increasing the variety of their diet.

I watched a webinar on Sensory Processing that I think may be of interest:

Reading

Please continue to read with you child daily, listen to them read and of course listen to you read by sharing books you have at home that they can't read by themselves. Support your child to read the words that are written on the page and use their phonics to blend unknown words. Talk about the illustrations as you add meaning to the text. You can also download sight words and tricky words from the same webpage you downloaded this.

Social Interaction

Playing card and board games as a family promotes the social interaction they need to function with their peers. Learning to take turns, manage stresses such as losing are key learning opportunities for your child to develop and grow. Games like snap or connect four are fun and easy, but some like snakes and ladders as well as go fish.

Minibeasts and their Micro Habitats

Week 4 – 11th May

Literacy: Diary of a Worm

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=DoBMW30Jmsk>

Do worms have teeth? Do they have legs? Do they have wings?

What happened in the story?

Why do you think the worm had a bird in its nightmare?

More Literacy: Superworm:

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=LRdbB_tRPsg&list=PLbUGNaNbhanpqbSotLidr7OmaKxfZPgFJ&index=51

What happened in the story? Everyone cheers Superworm. The crow picks up Superworm in his beak. The lizard asks Superworm to dig. Everyone helps Superworm.

Can you and your child make a mini-book of the story?

Can you remember all the things Superworm pretended to be?

Superworm as a skipping rope; fishing line; Swing; slide; hula hoop; fairground ride; hat; belt; crane; train; acrobat.

Who captured Superworm and brought him to Wizard Lizard? Servant Crow

What colour was Servant Crow? Black

How did Wizard Lizard control Superworm? By using a Magic Flower

What did Wizard Lizard want Superworm to do? To dig for his buried treasure.

What did Superworm find in the soil? Buttons, cork, toffee, fork.

What did the garden's creatures do to save Superworm? Eat the flower and use a web and honey to capture and fly him to a rubbish dump.

Music: There`s a worm at the bottom the garden

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=AqchPrhezXQ>

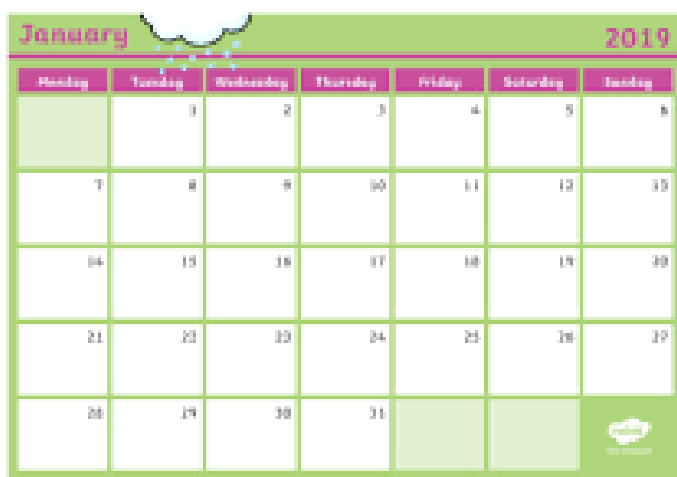

Using pots, pans, rubber bands over a tin, hands or anything at all to make a sound, can you keep a steady beat to the song?

Can you repeat the song again but this time make the sounds match the rhythm instead of the pulse? There are some long sounds and some short sounds like `bottom` and `garden`.

Maths: Months of the year

As you and your child have been keeping your own diaries. Compare it to the one in the story, which do you think is better and why? How could you make your diary/weekly log better? Ask you child what month did you start making your diary in?

Together you could make a monthly calendar. Asking you child questions like if this month is May what was last month? What month is next? What is the first month of the year?

On another day you could fill in all the special events like when is Easter? What month do we celebrate Halloween? Etc What month is your birthday in?
